Stand: Januar 2014

Allgemeines:

The UBA was founded in 1821. At present, it represents a well-known prestigious place for the training of professionals with over 6650 teachers and more than 100.800 students characterized by its strong commitment with society. The undersecretary of International Relations is in charge of the promotion, management and spread of information of programs and cooperation agreements. Among the great number of activities carried out by this department, the academic complementation; the interchange with foreign researchers, teachers and students - specifically those coming from countries and institutions with which UBA is involved in the development of academic, scientific and cultural undertakings-; and the design of projects of common interest are some of the most important. The Language Laboratory of the Faculty of Letters and Philosophy offers courses for learning various modern languages. Courses of Spanish as a Foreign Language have been offered since 1991 with cohorts which have reached 900 students per year.
