Stand: Oktober 2019

Allgemeines:

Kindai University was founded in 1925 with its principle mission to conduct research and provide education relevant to the real world. Today, with over 30,000 students and over 6,000 faculty members on six campuses in and around Osaka, Japan's second largest city, and in other parts of the country, Kindai University is widely recognized as one of Japan's leading research institutions.

Well aware that universities can and should serve a vital role in helping society, we have an ongoing project to support a town in Fukushima Prefecture, which was devastated by the March 2011 major earthquake and tsunami, and resulting nuclear power plant accident. Our 14 faculties are pooling their collective knowledge and resources in order to assist the people of Fukushima through projects such as radioactive decontamination.
